FRANCE SEES GRAVE DANGER IN DISPLAY OF NAVAL POWER

Rome, To-day.

Contrary to the general expectations yesterday's Italian Ministers' Council adopted no new resolutions of a political or military character concerning the Abyssinian dispute, but turned its attention to the financing of the eventual military operations.

It was decided to issue a 5 per cent Government loan "for the defence of the Italian colonies," the price of issue being 5 per cent below par. The owners of the 31/2 per cent conversion loan of 60,000,000 lire issued 18 months ago will be given the opportunity of converting into the new stock.

The Council also decided to raise the income tax as well as the passenger and goods tariffs on the State Railways, whereby it is hoped to cover the deficit of 800,000,000 fire shown by the State Railways.

BRITAIN ALLEGED TO BE BEHIND REVOLT MOVE! ITALIAN TROOPS FACED WITH

ELECTRIFIED BARRIER

Rome, To-day. A double purpose lies behind the official announcement that the Italian troops in Libya are being reinforced. A spirit of rebellion has smouldered among the Senussi tribesmen since General Graziano subdued them in 1932, and many took refuge in Egypt near the Cyrenaican border.

The Senussi agitation recently revived when the Italians withdrew some troops from Libya and Egypt, and is reported here to have been encouraged by the British authorities in Egypt.

The Italian troops are principally centred on the frontier between the holy cities of Zarabub and Kafra. They face a triple barrier of barbed wire, part electrified, along the whole Egyptian border, originally designed to prevent the smuggling of arms from Egypt to the Senussis.

A second consideration is the potential menace to Egypt of a Senussi revolution, as a powerful force moving from Cyrenaica to the Suez Canal would constitute a threat to British imperial communications. It is felt here that the threat of such a move will have a salutary effect on statesmen considering the use of sanctions against Italy.

Geneva: It was stated last ITALIAN night that the Italian reply to Senor de Medarison's des Abyssinian delegate states that it may be a week before a definite reply is received from Addis Ababa M. ## Skirt Of Many Tops

Begonia-Pink Top In Teffeta

LACE TOP WITH LONG SLEEVES

The 1860 drapery, with ekirts dragged up at the back and worm with different tops, is an intriguing and useful fashion by which we can ring the changes for both day and evening occasions. A variety of "tops," high and low, is most useful for the holiday suit-case. One well-known woman who travels a great deal takes two skirts, both beautifully fitted in thick satin, and just touching the ground. One is in white and the other in black. For these she has six different tops. Four are for evening, and two for semi-evening wear. One all-black top has tiny puffed sleeves and a decolletage that would do for either day of dinner wear. The one in white crepes has the new small turn-over collar at the base of the neck and an elbow sleeve.

A bright begonia-pink top taffeta is charming, with a frilled fichu, tiny fussy sleeves, a short basque just clearing the hips, and a fairly low decolletage.

Ace Of Spades An Advantage By Ely Culbertson

This week I plan to discuss interesting hands which developed when P. Hal Sims, and I played our now Samous Battle of Handicaps. The conditions of the match, as my readers will no doubt remember. were that should receive the Ace of spades on every deal but that I should bet Mr. Sims two to one he being allowed to double his score every time he won a rubber.

Three matches were played, all of them taking place at Crockford's Club, in New York The hy first one my partner. Albert H. Morehard, and I won from Mr.

The newspapers were full of it; people everywhere were interested in knows s ing which was better, the Ace of spades or the right to double AKITA MARU destined for Hong winning score. Special telegraph Kong dated May 7th 1934, has wires were put into the playing room so that the news could, go out hot and fresh to the millions who were waiting to hear the results.

The Ace of spades is a tremendous advantage, and I found that when I held that Ace every-time, I was usually blessed with enough THE EIGHTH EXTRA RACE good cards in addition to make my MEETING will be held hand better than average. Don't take chances when you buy an electric refrigerator

HERE is one of the most important questions to ask, before you buy any electric refrigerator:

Can you be sure the company that built it will stay in business?

If not would have no way to get it serviced no one to make good if it fails to live up to the glittering promises of the man who sells it to you. You'll have an "orphan" on your hands.

But — when you buy a genuine Frigidaire, you know you are getting the most successful refrigerator on the market. You know that there are a million more Frigidaires in use than any other make. And you know you are getting a product of General Motors.

London, To-day.

THE Arsenal, premier soccer league champions, were held to a draw for the third time in six matches when they visited the lowly placed Leeds yesterday.

Bradford, the other senior London team in action yesterday, went down at Derby, who have a 100 per cent home record, to concede their first goal in an away fixture, while Everton secured their first away point by opening their goal-scoring account with a 2-2 draw at Preston.

The Birmingham "derby" resulted in the expected draw at the Hawthorns, where the Throstles held Birmingham to a goalless draw

Manchester United, who have dropped only one point in their last five games, retained their 100 per cent. home record with a 2-0 win over Hull, who have yet to break their "duck" in away matches.

FALLING PRICES

AGAIN REPORTED

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "Shut Windows 1880," by Elinor Mordaunt.

The last of the cold mest and Gruyere cheese and Alpine honey was eaten, and the last bottle of white wine emptied, and they filled their pipes to smoke. While George Heriot was Tumbling in his side pocket for the matches he carried loose, there he accidentally pulled out a letter and dropped it on the ground. A gust of wind blew it over to the place where Basil Gordon sat. He reached out his arm and picked it up, to hand it back, and noticed that it was his wife's handwriting.

There was nothing extraordinary in that. Gordon would almost certainly have returned it without comment, never supposing it to be anything but an old invitation to lunch or dinner, or some equally innocent communication, written at his own desire. But the quick, peremptory tone in which the other exclaimed, "Gordon, give me that letter, please," impelled him, almost involuntarily, to throw a casual glance over it.

The few words that just caught his eye were sufficiently surprising to induce him to read further, more especially as his compamion repeated his demand:

"Gordon, I asked you to give me back that letter." "I have a right to read this letter, Heriot," he answered, "and

Unless it were a forgery-and for such a forgery no motive was imaginable—it left him absolutely no room for doubt. He felt like a man dazed, and pressed his hand against his forehead. doubting the evidence of his own senses.
